

Get Ready to Talk– Review of Sounds

Does your child know HOW to produce error sounds, but still does not USE them all of the time in conversational speech? Do paper activities lose the glamour in the summer, and articulation practice is difficult? Or does your Child need a review of a certain sound so it is not lost over the summer? Sign up for fun review of sounds! The target sounds will be incorporated in fun activities, games, and turn taking, that will encourage sound carryover! One or two error sounds will be stressed. Please provide documentation of error sounds before the class, so the activities can be tailored for your child. This is not a replacement to traditional articulation/phonological therapy, but a supplement. This class is taught by two licensed speech-language pathologists.
